The position is available for up to 20 hours per week, starting as soon as possible, ideally for a period of 12 months.

Your tasks:

- Support internal communication and community management activities within the global Industrial Engineering Tires (IET) network.
- Create and maintain communication materials and channels (e.g. Viva Engage, SharePoint, presentations, videos, newsletters).
- Assist in the planning, promotion, and execution of internal events, conventions, training sessions, and workshops.
- Support trainers in the development of training concepts, materials, and documentation.
- Collaborate with production and industrial engineering teams to identify training needs and improve learning initiatives.
- Contribute to internal marketing and communication strategies while ensuring compliance with corporate communication standards.
- Support projects related to operational excellence, continuous improvement, and lean management.
- Provide administrative and organizational support for communication and training activities.
