

System Design Engineer Head-up Displays

Responsabilități

- the analysis of the stakeholder's needs and expectations
- the definition of the product architecture in cooperation with the discipline design engineers such as electrical, software, display technology and mechanical
- ensuring that the requirements of all lifecycle stages such as quotation, development, manufacturing and maintenance are addressed at the right point in the lifecycle of the system design
- covering an end to end responsibility of technical aspects (left side of V-cycle) in order to ensure that requirements of all life cycle stages are addressed with the best choice solutions in terms of quality, delivery and costs

Cerințe

- Several years of professional experience in technical projects, preferably in the Automotive Industry
- Experience with the product Head-Up Display or similar opto-mechanical products preferred
- Experience in more than one engineering discipline preferred
- Language: Japanese/Native, English/Fluent
- Minimum 5~8 years experience in automotive , and certain experience regarding HuD

Oferta noastră

Recent situation, since system level integration and combination solution with other products as integrated system has been introduced, importance of experienced Project Manager is more increased and right project handling is necessary in time with right communication to understand/proceed correctly. In addition, deep technical discussions (e.G. FSM, new function in combination with other units) are much increased and discussion required by customer year by year in Japan.

コンチネンタルで働くことにご興味のある方は、 オンラインよりご応募下さい

Job ID
REF81455S

ID poziție
Inginerie

Domeniul de activitate
Kanagawa-ku, Yokohama-shi

Nivelul de Leadership
Leading Self

Flexibilitatea programului de lucru
Hybrid Job

Persoană juridică
Continental Automotive Japan K. K.

Despre noi

Safety and Motion division develops, produces and markets intelligent system to improve driving safety and vehicle dynamics. Integral active and passive safety technologies and products that support vehicle dynamics provide greater safety, comfort and convenience. The goal here is to implement “Vision Zero”, the vision of accident-free driving.