Your tasks

We are seeking a detail-oriented and analytical Curing Engineer (m/f/diverse) to join our team in Hannover, Germany. As a Curing Engineer, you will play a crucial role in optimizing curing processes, ensuring product quality, and driving innovation in our manufacturing operations.

- Develop and report curing portfolio management including demand and use forecast
- Develop, implement, and optimize curing processes for various polymer-based products
- Analyze and troubleshoot curing-related issues to improve product quality and production efficiency
- Design and conduct experiments to evaluate new curing technologies and materials
- Collaborate with cross-functional teams to enhance product performance and manufacturing processes
- Develop and maintain standard operating procedures (SOPs) for curing processes
- Analyze data and prepare technical reports on curing process performance and improvements
- Stay up-to-date with the latest advancements in curing technologies and industry best practices
- Provide technical support and training to production teams on curing processes and equipment

Your profile

- Bachelor's degree in Chemical Engineering, Materials Science, or related field; Master's degree preferred
- Several years of experience in curing engineering or related field
- Extensive knowledge of curing processes, polymer chemistry, and material science
- Proven experience with various curing methods (e.g., thermal, UV, electron beam)
- Strong proficiency in process optimization and quality control techniques
- Excellent problem-solving and troubleshooting skills
- Advanced data analysis and interpretation abilities
- Proficiency in relevant software, including CAD and statistical analysis tools
- Experience in the rubber and polymer industry; automotive or aerospace manufacturing experience is a plus
- Fluency in English (written and spoken)
- Strong communication and teamwork skills
- Ability to work efficiently in a fast-paced manufacturing environment
- Willingness to travel occasionally for project-related purposes

Applications from severely handicapped people are welcome.
