

Global HR Systems Operations Specialist

工作职责

Join our Global HR Services team and help shape the future of our HR Service Management Platform and related technologies. As a Global HR Systems Operations Specialist, you will play a key role in driving the automation, enhancement, and continuous improvement of our global HR services ecosystem.

Working closely with HR, HRIT, business stakeholders, and external partners, you will support the delivery of scalable, user-centric, and efficient HR solutions that enable seamless HR service delivery worldwide. In this role, you will contribute to system implementations, process optimization, operational excellence, and digital innovation, helping to enhance both employee experience and service efficiency across the organization.

Your Responsibilities:

- Drive and support the continuous enhancement of our global HR Service Management Platform and related technologies, with a focus on automation, user experience, operational efficiency and scalability.
- Coordinate and support system implementations, releases, upgrades, and go-live activities, ensuring smooth transitions into daily operations.
- Partner and collaborate closely with Global HR Services, HRIT, business stakeholders and external service providers to ensure effective collaboration, issue resolution and reliable service delivery.
- Manage and continuously improve operational processes and governance activities, including Release Management, Demand Management, and system support processes.
- Identify opportunities to simplify, standardize and automate HR processes and workflows, contributing to the ongoing evolution of our HR Service Management Platform and related technologies.
- Support project and continuous improvement initiatives by coordinating activities, tracking progress, managing risks, and ensuring alignment across stakeholders.
- Facilitate testing and deployment activities, including User Acceptance Testing (UAT), system validation, and post-go-live stabilization.
- Monitor data quality, operational performance, and process effectiveness to help ensure reliable, compliant, and sustainable HR services.
- Develop and maintain process documentation, knowledge articles, standard operating procedures, and training materials, while promoting knowledge sharing across the global HR community.
- Support change management, communication, and user enablement activities to drive adoption of new capabilities and foster continuous improvement and innovation.
